HOUSEPLANT TRENDS FOR 2020

Houseplants are hot. One in three households bought at least one houseplant last year, according to the National Gardening Association. Experts attribute the trend to a focus on wellness, and the affect our surroundings have on our wellness. Studies show indoor plants remove toxins from the air, lower blood pressure, and boost concentration.

We have houseplants arriving almost every week along with new choices of pots, vessels, stands and hangers.

We're hearing the top trends for this year will be:

- houseplants with colorful foliage, such as prayer plants and marantas,
- unusual succulents,
- classics, including dracaenas, split leaf philodendrons, and the fiddle leaf fig,
- hanging plants - yes, the macrame hanger -
- and plant rooms and plant communities, where folks decorate with plants and share it on social media.

We look forward to helping you create your indoor jungle.

Bainbridge GARDENNER

It's an exciting time here at Bainbridge Gardens! Each week brings something new! New plants, new pots, new ideas for your home and garden, and new gifts for Moms, Dads and Grads!

Spring is in the air.

Winter bloomers such as sarcococca, witch hazel, and daphne perfume the air with their sweet fragrance. Plant one near an entrance to enjoy a whiff of perfume every time you open the door.

Flowering color is arriving too. Primroses and pansies, and pots of spring bulbs will soon be joined by your favorite annuals and perennials.

Scented candles, soft spring colors, and new bamboo dinnerware designed for outdoor entertaining welcome the longer, lighter days ahead.

What to do and when? We have eight Certified Professional Horticulturists on our staff. Bring in your gardening questions and ideas. We also can provide a home consultation. We're happy to help.

Start your veggie garden. We have hundreds of choices of vegetable, herb and flower seeds. You'll find plenty of organic and heirloom varieties and all of our seeds are GMO-free. Potatoes and onions arrive mid-February, followed by veggie starts as the weather warms. Our cedar raised bed kits and E.B. Stone's Raised Bed soil mix makes it easy to get started.

Cherry, peach, pear, plums, and apple trees are here, soon to be followed by blueberries, raspberries, and strawberries. Come in soon for the best selection. For smaller gardens, consider a grafted tree, which has three or four varieties on one tree. Explore our collection of unusual edibles as well.
